

Follow up – clinics, consulting, partnerships

- Staff support is a key challenge because student support can be spotty.
- Linkage to funded MBA interns is a win-win here. Both the Leo Fund @ Columbia and Vanderbilt have had good experiences with this.
- Leveraging alum in finance more broadly is a win-win. Leads to good learning and can have an overall positive halo for recruiting.
- Encourage students to stay in close touch with the lead investor in early-stage venture investments to maximize learning.
- Understand University investments as anchor institutions and consider co-investment as a way of amplifying impact.
- Handoffs to consulting classes, clubs, and student groups can be great for follow-on.
