TITLE IX OFFICE

- Housed within Office of Equal Access, which handles all matters concerning discrimination and access
- The Title IX Office partners with other campus stakeholders like Equal Opportunity and Access, Student Access, and various affinity groups to provide inclusive, welcoming environment
- Receives reports of misconduct and coordinates referral to resources and implementation of supportive measures for parties
- Handles investigations into allegations of sexual misconduct
- Works closely with confidential and limited confidential resources like the Counseling Center and Project Safe for education and training
- Not just student-focused – we handle faculty/staff/postdoc claims of sexual misconduct as well

- Fostering a welcoming environment includes receiving reports from members of the campus community, including those from mandatory reporters
- This is to create a welcoming environment for anyone who may be affected by sexual misconduct, help you create it for others, as well as to provide any necessary supportive measures
- All Vanderbilt faculty, staff, and postdocs are mandatory reporters (except confidential resources)
