Dear Vanderbilt alumni and friends,

Journey with us to beautiful Normandy, a northern region of France that has played a significant role in the political, cultural, and gastronomic development of Western civilization. Eighty years ago, on this northernmost stretch of beautiful French coastline, D-Day sites date from the 85th anniversary year and stand as remarkable relics of World War II’s landmark invasion.

Eighty years ago, one of the largest and most complex invasions in history unfolded along Normandy’s coastline. It began on D-Day, June 6, 1944, when more than 160,000 Allied troops landed on the beaches held by the Germans. Under the command of General Dwight D. Eisenhower, these Allied troops secured the beaches and later advanced inland to liberate Paris. A powerful psychological victory for both allies and foes, D-Day will be remembered forever as the moment of World War II when the tide began to turn against the Nazis.
