Every May, the Vanderbilt University Board of Trust determines the tuition and student fees for the upcoming academic year. The finalized tuition and fee amounts are then published to the Office of Student Accounts website (finance.vanderbilt.edu/stuaccts).

Students enrolled in the full-time MPH degree option register in a full-time course load each term and they are charged an annual flat tuition amount. The flat tuition amount is divided equally and charged over three terms in the first year of study and two terms in the second year of study. The tuition charged for the term does not correspond directly with the number of credit hours taken.

Full-time students register in a full-time course load each term:

- Fall: 8 – 18 credit hours
- Spring: 8 – 18 credit hours
- Summer: 6 – 8 credit hours

Registration in the following second-year courses constitutes a full-time course load:

- Thesis Research I (year 2 fall term)
- Thesis Research II (year 2 spring term)
- Capstone ePortfolio Development (year 2 spring term)

Students registered in these courses in their final year of MPH training can take less than 8 credit hours and still qualify as a full-time student.

Students taking more than a full-time course load are charged $1,700 per hour for each additional credit hour.
