Prevention Education Programming 2017-18

Cara Tuttle Bell, Director

PROJECT SAFE CENTER

Prevention Education Programming 2017-18

Purpose

The mission of the Project Safe Center is to provide information, support, referrals, and education about interpersonal violence (including sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, and stalking), as well as consent, healthy relationships, and healthy sexuality to the Vanderbilt University community. Project Safe serves as a central resource for those impacted by interpersonal violence and can assist with navigating the University's resource and support network (including the Psychological and Counseling Center, Student Health Center, the Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action and Disability Services Department, and the Vanderbilt University Police Department) as well as external support and law enforcement resources.

Core Areas of Responsibility

- Project Safe provides direct service and support to those impacted by sexual harassment and intimate partner violence, including sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, stalking, sexual exploitation, coercion, retaliation, and/or other forms of sexual misconduct.
- Project Safe provides sexual misconduct prevention education to members of the Vanderbilt University community.
- The Project Safe hotline, (615) 322-SAFE (7233), is staffed by Project Safe's Victim Resource Specialists 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year.
- Project Safe Center staff provide support and assistance to students and help coordinate, as appropriate, any necessary or requested interim accommodations, such as a change in housing arrangements, class or work schedules, or a Dean's notification related to class attendance, completion of assignments or exams, or the extension of deadlines. Project Safe staff reports to the Vanderbilt University Medical Center Emergency Department outside of business hours when requested by a student. Project Safe Center staff will assist any student who may wish to file a report with law enforcement and/or the University.
- Project Safe staff provides assistance to faculty, staff, and post-doctoral scholars impacted by interpersonal violence. Project Safe staff accompany impacted VU community members who may wish to file a report to meetings with law enforcement and/or the University and may provide resource and referral information, as appropriate.
- Project Safe coordinates University initiatives designed to raise awareness and address interpersonal violence through a variety of prevention programming efforts, including the Green Dot bystander intervention program, the Escalation dating violence intervention workshop, the Haven—Understanding Sexual Assault module, among other programs.
- Project Safe submits crime report data or other incident data as required by the Clery Act and Title IX.

Violence Prevention Programs

In 2017-18, Project Safe offered or participated in over 275 programs, reaching over 10,000 members of the Vanderbilt University community through participation in tabling, orientation, student fairs, trainings, and as visiting lecturers in academic classes. Project Safe staff regularly offer effective consent education, sexual assault risk reduction strategies, dating violence awareness and prevention programming, stalking awareness and prevention training, mandatory reporting training, as well as other educational programs on the neurobiology of trauma, strategies for supporting survivors and taking action to create culture change in our community. Detailed information on our primary programs is offered below.

Green Dot Bystander Intervention Training

The Green Dot campaign is a coordinated campus effort to reduce and prevent interpersonal violence, including stalking, sexual, and relationship violence through bystander intervention training. The Green Dot curriculum provides a way for anyone to respond safely to incidents of interpersonal violence they may witness. Vanderbilt has utilized this curriculum since 2009. In 2017-18, Project Safe offered 37 Green Dot sessions. Over 700 Vanderbilt students, faculty, staff, and post-doctoral scholars attended a Green Dot overview program during the past academic year and over 650 VU community members completed a 3- or 4-hour Green Dot training.

Haven—Understanding Sexual Assault

Beginning with the 2015-2016 academic year, all incoming students (undergraduate first-year, undergraduate transfer, graduate and professional) were required to complete the Haven—Understanding Sexual Assault module, offered through educational vendor EverFi. In 2017-18, the University again required incoming students to complete the module, with graduate and professional students required to complete Haven Plus, which is tailored for those populations, featuring scenarios of workplace and peer sexual harassment, in addition to the overviews of sexual assault, dating and domestic violence, and stalking provided in Haven. Both versions of the Haven module are interactive, online educational programs which provide information on types of interpersonal violence, the prevalence of such violence, harmful gender stereotypes, ways to communicate sexual preferences and boundaries, on-campus prevention and support resources, Tennessee state law, and University policy.

Undergraduate Student Participation: In coordination with the Office of Student Accountability, Community Standards, and Academic Integrity, Project Safe helped to deliver a 100% compliance rate for incoming undergraduate student completion of Haven by the end of October 2017, matching the completion rate and timeline previously set with the implementation of the VU PETS module in 2013-14 and 2014-15 and the Haven module in 2015-16 and 2016-17.

Graduate and Professional Student Participation: As of May 2018, 91% of degree-seeking first-year graduate and professional students have completed the module.

Escalation

Beginning in Fall 2015, Project Safe began offering the Escalation workshop, a dating violence awareness and intervention program created by the One Love Foundation, to the Vanderbilt community. The 2015-16 academic year was planned to serve as a soft roll-out for the program, which builds upon peer-to-peer facilitation. Project Safe fully launched the program in Fall 2016, with staff offering 11 Escalation workshops in 2016-17, reaching 95 undergraduate students, 1 graduate/professional student, 33 staff members, and one faculty member. In 2017-18, Project Safe offered 13 Escalation workshops, reaching 134 undergraduate students, 8 graduate/professional students, and 3 staff members.

Title IX and Clery Act Compliance and Training

Project Safe staff assist the University in complying with state and federal laws, most significantly Title IX and the Clery Act, both of which require most University employees to report incidents of interpersonal violence to designated University authorities (the University's Title IX Coordinator and Vanderbilt University Police Department). The Director of Project Safe regularly partners with the University's Title

IX Coordinator, Associate Dean of Students for Community Standards and Student Support, and the Director of the Office of Student Accountability, Community Standards, and Academic Integrity to train faculty, staff, and students who are designated mandatory reporters (those who must notify the Title IX coordinator if they learn of sexual misconduct). Project Safe offered or contributed to 25 trainings during the 2017-18 academic year.

Visions Sessions

All first-year students are assigned to one of 92 Visions groups. These groups—each of which is made up of about eighteen first-year students—meet frequently throughout students' first semester on campus. Project Safe offers sessions for these small groups. In 2017-18, we facilitated sessions for 23 Visions groups, reaching 290 undergraduate first-year students.

Available Programs

Throughout the 2017-18 academic year, Project Safe offered a broad menu of programs, including:

- Supporting a Survivor (for students)
- Supporting a Survivor (for faculty and staff)
- The Language of Violence
- Actionable Next Steps: Moving Beyond Awareness-Raising (for student organizations)
- Understanding Coercion
- Building Healthy Relationships
- 'Dores Prevention Playbook (for student athletes)
- Reducing Slutshaming and Victim-blaming
- Sexploitation: Sexting, Coercion, and Consent
- Setting and Maintaining Boundaries
- Survivor Self-Care
- Lunch and Learn series (for graduate and professional students)
- Yoga for Trauma Survivors
- Stalking Awareness and Prevention
- Alcohol and Consent Programming

Full descriptions of all programs may be found at <http://www.vanderbilt.edu/projectsafe/programs>.

Project Safe also offered an ongoing support group, Rooted in Resilience, facilitated by Prevention Educator and Victim Resource Specialist Sarah Jordan Welch, LMSW. Rooted in Resilience was open to all student victim-survivors and met twice a month on Wednesday early evenings at the Project Safe Center.

Programs for Student Athletes

For student athletes, Project Safe developed the 'Dores Prevention Playbook, a 90-minute training that helps build bystander intervention skills, teaches students to recognize the warning signs of dating violence, guides students through completion of a healthy boundaries worksheet, explores the connections between sports language and team environments and the desensitization of violence, and highlights the stiff potential penalties and other costs relevant to athletes. All varsity teams completed this training during 2017-18.

Greek Life / Greek Member Experience (GME) Programs

For the fourth consecutive year, Project Safe and the Office of Greek Life partnered to ensure that all new members of Interfraternity Council fraternities completed Green Dot bystander intervention training as part of their new member education. Project Safe Center staff conducted survivor-sensitivity and anti-retaliation training for students serving as IFC Greek Allies and members of Panhellenic Council's Gamma Chi Greek women student advisers. Furthermore, Project Safe offered 55 programs in 2016-17 as part of the Greek Member Experience and by special request from chapter organizations.

My Vanderbilt Experience (MVE)

Project Safe offered 38 programs during the Spring 2018 semester that counted towards students' completion of the My Vanderbilt Experience (MVE) program. Project Safe programs regularly fulfill requirements for completing the Culture of Care and/or Health and Wellness tracks. We believe that our participation in this co-curricular engagement program assists us in building awareness of our services among first-year students and attracting all students to our annual Sexual Assault Awareness Month events in April.

Looking Forward

With the advent of the 2018-19 academic year, Project Safe will begin its fifth academic year of existence as a stand-alone Center and will continue to build upon the promotional and expansion efforts undertaken to raise awareness of the Center and its growing range of services.

In the 2018-19 academic year, Project Safe Center goals including continuing to expand its programmatic offerings, particularly through collaboration with partner offices, including the Graduate School, Office of Postdoctoral Affairs, and Black Cultural Center, and by building stronger relationships with faculty. Project Safe staff will offer on-site advocacy office hours in graduate and professional school locations, at the Black Cultural Center and in the Athletics McGugin Center, and will offer a series of professional development programs designed for graduate and professional students and post-doctoral scholars, which will explore how to support student survivors of sexual violence, navigating sexual harassment in graduate school, and careers in Title IX compliance.

Vanderbilt Student Government and Project Safe will continue to partner in participation with the It's On Us initiative and will partner to bring law professor and activist Anita Hill to campus, as part of the Vanderbilt Student Government Sexual Assault Prevention Subcommittee annual conference. Project Safe will highlight dating and domestic violence in October, which is nationally recognized as Domestic Violence Awareness Month. In January, we will observe National Stalking Awareness Month, and will begin working with our University partners to promote student participation in the Campus Climate Survey, for which we are partnering with the Association of American Universities. In April, we will conclude the academic year with a robust Sexual Assault Awareness Month of programs.

Cara Tuttle Bell has served as Director of the Project Safe Center since its founding in 2014. Cara previously served as the Associate Director for Student Accountability, Community Standards, and Academic Integrity at Vanderbilt University and as Director of Programs for the Women's Center at Northwestern University. Cara holds a JD from Vanderbilt University Law School, Master of Arts in Women's and Gender Studies from the University of Louisville, and her Bachelor of Science in Political Science from Ball State University, where she graduated summa cum laude. Cara was selected as the 2015 recipient of the Mary Jane Werthan Award, which is presented to a member of the Vanderbilt community who has contributed to the advancement of women at Vanderbilt on a systemic level. The award is named in honor of Mary Jane Werthan, the first woman member of the Vanderbilt Board of Trust. In 2016, Cara received the K.C. Potter Outstanding Service to Students Award from the Vanderbilt University Office of the Dean of Students. In 2017, Cara was nominated to participate in Vanderbilt Leadership Academy, a nine-month learning journey for high-performing leaders from academic and administrative areas at both Vanderbilt University and Vanderbilt University Medical Center. Cara serves as a lecturer in the Women's and Gender Studies Program, for which she teaches the Seminar on Gender and Violence. Cara provides institutional advocacy on aspects of University response systems and processes involving sexual violence and represents Project Safe on various University task forces and committees, including the Provost's Task Force on Sexual Assault and the Officer Education Sexual Assault Prevention Committee.

Otis McGresham, M.Ed.
Prevention Educator and Victim Resource Specialist
otis.mcgrisham@vanderbilt.edu
(615) 875-0660

Otis holds a Master of Higher Education Administration degree from Texas A&M University and a BA in Organizational Communication from Western Michigan University. Along with his passion for serving students, he brings a variety of professional experiences covering multiple functional areas of student affairs. Advocacy and education have been a consistent part of Otis' student affairs career. Previously, Otis has served as the Assistant Director for Interpersonal Violence Services and Advocacy and the Rape Prevention Education Coordinator in the NC State University Women's Center, and Coordinator of Student Assistance Services and Hall Director at Texas A&M University. Otis' focus is on creating and maintaining educationally purposeful environments where all students feel safe, empowered, and encouraged to participate fully and authentically in the university experience. Otis is the primary coordinator of Project Safe's Green Dot programs.

Sarah Jordan Welch, LMSW
Prevention Educator and Victim Resource Specialist
sarah.jordan.welch@vanderbilt.edu
(615) 875-0660

Sarah Jordan holds a Master of Social Work degree from University of Washington, and a Bachelor of Arts from The Evergreen State College. Previously, Sarah Jordan worked as a Youth Outreach Specialist and Advocate, working with survivors of physical and sexual violence at SafePlace Advocacy Center and Shelter, as well as the Youth Outreach Specialist for The Crisis Clinic in Olympia, Washington. Sarah Jordan brings a passion for educating students and providing empathy and support for those impacted by interpersonal violence. She is committed to furthering communal knowledge about issues of violence and the intersectionality of gender, race, class, and other parts of survivors' identities. Sarah Jordan's focus is in supporting survivors of trauma, while understanding and educating on the systemic causes of violence. In 2017, Sarah Jordan was recognized by the Office of the Dean of Students as the recipient of the New Professional Staff Member Award. Sarah Jordan is the primary coordinator for Project Safe's victim services and advocacy-based programs.
