We encourage you to read the book once from start to finish, then keep it on hand so that you can refer back to it whenever you need it.

Guiding Principles, Administrative Framework, & Student Learning and Development

Sections 4, 5, and 6 are the core components of the Standards. Each clause and sub-clause outlines an aspect of good practice in our field. Use the auxiliary verbs (shall, should, can) as a guide to the expectations set by each clause. See pages 6-7 for more information.

Need help?

Key terms are defined in Section 3. Search for clauses and sub-clauses on specific topics or challenges by referring to the Topical Index in the back of the book.

The Code of Ethics for Education Abroad, Third Edition, is included in this edition. Two essential education abroad references in one convenient volume.

Prompts for Self-Assessment

This companion piece to the Standards guides you through a series of questions to assess programs and practices and identify areas of strength and room for improvement.

Colleagues seeking more specific guidance tailored to particular types—e.g., internships, community engagement, health-related programs—or facets—e.g., partnerships, advising—of education abroad can find additional support in The Forum's Guidelines series

INTRODUCTION

This document, published by The Forum on Education Abroad, specifies minimum requirements, quality indicators, and a framework for continuous improvement for education abroad. It is applicable to undergraduate, graduate, professional, and continuing education, whether for credit or not for credit.

The Forum on Education Abroad is recognized by the US Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission as the Standards Development Organization (SDO) for the field of education abroad. As such, it is The Forum's responsibility to monitor changes in our field of professional practice and to maintain, update, and promulgate the Standards of Good Practice for Education Abroad accordingly.

REVISING THE STANDARDS

During the fall of 2018, The Forum's Standards Manager and the Chair of the Forum Council formed the Standards Update Working Group. The Forum intentionally selected members to represent voices from diverse regions, institution and organization types, and constituents. The Forum released a Notification of Standards Development on October 11, 2018. To ensure even wider and more diverse representation, The Forum hosted a series of online listening sessions over the next six months, scheduled at different times of day. One listening session happened at The Forum's European Conference in Prague, Czech Republic, in October 2018, and another at The Forum's Annual Conference in Denver, Colorado, USA, in March 2019. The Forum collected information from any constituents who could not attend the listening sessions via a submission form available on the organization's website.

The Forum aligned the revision process with the core principles of due process for standards development as identified by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI): Openness, Lack of Dominance, Balance, Coordination and Harmonization, Consideration of View and Objections, Consensus, and Appeals. This included a public comment period on the first draft of the 6th Edition and the formation of a Consensus Body with a diverse membership. In this way, persons directly or materially affected by the Standards had the opportunity to have their voices heard in this important process.

After two rounds of voting and revision, consensus (42 affirmative votes; 1 negative vote) was reached by the Consensus Body on October 18, 2019. Following the appeals period, the 6th edition of the Standards of Good Practice for Education Abroad takes effect July 1, 2020.

HOW TO USE THE STANDARDS

The Standards of Good Practice for Education Abroad can be used as a tool to:

- guide program development,
- evaluate program quality,
- advocate for resources and support,
- train new professionals,
- educate stakeholders such as parents, faculty, students, etc.,
- establish and maintain respectful, sustainable relationships between partners.

While these Standards represent consensus in the field of education abroad at the postsecondary level, other constituents may find the Standards useful for informing their own practices. These groups may include primary and secondary educators providing education abroad programs to their own students and institutions and organizations offering education abroad programs for participants from countries other than the US.

The number and order of the clauses that follow do not imply hierarchy, importance, or a suggested order of operations. Use these Standards holistically.

Throughout the Standards, use this guide established by the International Organization for Standardization (ISO), to understand the expectations set by each clause [1]:

- shall indicates minimum requirements
- should indicates recommendations
- can indicates further possibilities for improvement

Definitions of frequently used and field-specific terms are provided in Section 3 for reference. In some cases, common words have been defined in order to ensure a shared understanding of how these words are used within the context of these Standards of Good Practice and to make the document accessible to readers who may have learned English as a second or foreign language.

Sections 4, 5, and 6 comprise the clauses and subclauses, the core of the Standards. Section 4 outlines guiding principles, which should be thought of as overarching and applying to the next two sections. Section 5 deals with the administrative framework for education abroad, and Section 6 deals with student learning and development, further divided into considerations for the phases before, during, and after study abroad participation. The Standards Update Working Group developed this structure to speak more directly to individuals, institutions, and organizations in many contexts and with varied influence or responsibility over the education abroad process. The structure lends itself to holistic use, rather than to a more fragmented approach, in which users choose discrete chunks of the Standards to focus on because those are the ones they consider to be in their purview.

Those who are accustomed to using previous versions of the Standards, or those who are looking for guidance on certain topics, will find the topical index in the Annex useful. For example, someone who is looking for information on health, safety, security, and risk management will find these topics not on their own in one particular section, but woven throughout Sections 4, 5, and 6. The index will give the specific clause(s) and/or subclause(s) where each topic may be found. The index will allow users to find specific information incorporated within the holistic Standards structure.

CODE OF ETHICS FOR EDUCATION ABROAD

Third Edition

1. INTRODUCTION

This document, published by The Forum on Education Abroad, is designed to guide ethical decision-making and assist organizations as they seek to provide education abroad experiences and services in accord with the highest ethical standards. The Shared Values and Principles of Professional Practice outlined below are essential to the fair and just administration of education abroad programs and the welfare of the learners that we serve.

The Forum on Education Abroad is recognized by the US Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission as the Standards Development Organization (SDO) for the field of education abroad. This document serves as a normative reference to the Standards of Good Practice for Education Abroad (6th edition).

Please refer to the Standards of Good Practice, section 3, for definitions of frequently used and field-specific terms.

2. SHARED VALUES

A. RESPONSIBILITY TO LEARNERS

We deliver impactful, accessible, and intellectually and personally meaningful programs that strive to meet the Standards of Good Practice for Education Abroad.

We endeavor to share with learners the value and significance of international education and experience, and the impact that it can have on them and those with whom they interact. We encourage learners to maximize international learning and engagement through meaningful and respectful communication with other people and other cultures, and to reflect on and articulate the value and meaning of their experiences.

We recognize the importance of establishing clear expectations and communicating them to learners based on these shared values. We know that empowered and informed learners make responsible decisions, take accountability for their actions, and understand the limits of responsibility.

B. TRUTHFULNESS AND TRANSPARENCY

We communicate openly and honestly with all stakeholders, and our interactions with learners and stakeholders are founded in trust. We uphold accuracy and transparency of decision-making, policies, procedures, program promotion, and partnerships. Service to our learners is central to our decision-making and we avoid conflicts of interest that are counter to this goal.

C. EQUITY, DIVERSITY, AND INCLUSION

We seek out opportunities to engage with diverse populations and perspectives, and do so with patience, understanding, humility, and respect, modelling the behavior we aim to cultivate in our learners. We endeavor to expand access to education abroad, and to create an environment of inclusivity that is open, respectful, and safe for all. We strive for equity in our treatment of all. We do not accept intolerance, and we work to eliminate inequities within our organizations and communities.

D. RECIPROCITY AND RESPECT FOR OTHERS

Reciprocity must be valued as we consider the consequences of our activity on a global scale with respect to the environment, economies, communities, and cultures. We are sensitive to dynamics of power and privilege and the impact of our actions in the communities in which we operate and with whom we engage.

We work to ensure that our interactions and interrelationships with the communities in which we operate, whether in-country or virtually, are mutually beneficial. Our work with learners, host communities, and internal stakeholders at our institutions and external partners is grounded in reciprocity.

3. PRINCIPLES OF PROFESSIONAL PRACTICE

A. EDUCATIONAL QUALITY

Our educational content, assessment, and policies foster an environment which prioritizes student learning and academic excellence.

B. ADVOCACY

We advocate for the value of enhanced global perspectives and intercultural understanding through global learning. Wherever possible, we promote The Forum’s mission, which is to “cultivate educators who champion high quality education abroad experiences that ignite curiosity, impact lives, and contribute to a better world.”

C. HEALTH, SAFETY, AND WELL-BEING

We are committed to the personal safety, health, and well-being of our participants and local partners. We assess risks and endeavor to establish and maintain programs that support the emotional, intellectual, and physical safety of our participants. We orient our participants and provide them with detailed information about health and safety risks in host environments as well as available support services. We have plans and training to respond to emergencies that may impact our participants.

D. PRICING AND AFFORDABILITY

We work to the best of our ability to develop and operate global learning opportunities that provide accessible, affordable opportunities while maintaining quality of offerings and learner support. Our pricing is transparent, and financial policies are clear, equitable, and consistently implemented. We retain provisions for handling emergencies and sufficient financial resources to meet the obligations of each program.

E. PARTNERSHIPS

We pursue business relationships that are mutually beneficial and respectful of each other's goals, principles, and values. We endeavor to establish partnerships that are fair, just, and equitable, and are sensitive to power differentials between organizations. Our interactions with partners are collegial, transparent, mindful of intellectual property rights, avoid conflicts of interest, and put learners first.

F. PRIVACY AND CONFIDENTIALITY

We respect and protect the privacy and confidentiality of participants, personnel, partners, and stakeholders in our work in compliance with applicable privacy laws and policies. We communicate limitations of confidentiality promptly and clearly.

G. RESPECT FOR LOCAL LAWS AND CULTURES

We operate our programs with respect to local customs and cultural norms, and ensure that all participants in those programs are informed and similarly respectful. We acknowledge our collective responsibility to conduct education abroad programs in accordance with governing laws. We aspire to ethical behavior above and beyond what is required by law.

H. SUSTAINABILITY

We seek to wed sustainable environmental practices with our academic and programmatic goals. In doing so, we acknowledge that sustainable actions are reached through informed and balanced decision-making and can have positive effects on relationships, the economic welfare of all, cultural traditions, and the global environment. We consider the impact of our work on the environment as well as the economics and cultures of host communities.

I. ACCOUNTABILITY AND CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT

We take accountability for our actions, decisions, and for their consequences. We are accountable to our learners for the education they receive. We continuously make improvements to our programming and practices to benefit participants, stakeholders, and the communities in which we operate.

FOUR QUESTIONS TO GUIDE ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING IN EDUCATION ABROAD

- Is it in the best interests of the learners, their growth and well-being?
- Is it truthful, fair, transparent?
- Is it equitable and inclusive?
- Is it grounded in reciprocity? Do the host communities agree?
